Operational Risk Register review

Executive Summary

The Operational Risk Register (ORR) underwent a major review in 2021-22. Following a year of operation, a further internally led review has been undertaken and the first round of quarterly Internal Assurance meetings has taken place across the organisation resulting in the capture of additional information, summarised in the paper.

Previous consideration	The Committee reviews the ORR annually. ELT reviews the ORR on a quarterly basis, but reviews risk areas on a monthly basis with risk owners.
Decision	The Committee is invited to question and provide feedback on the content of the register.
Next steps	The next report will be received in September 2023.
Strategic priority	Operational risks are mapped to the strategic risks relevant to all strategic priorities.
Financial and resource implications	None as a result of this paper.
Author	Roy Dunn, CISRO roy.dunn@hcpc-uk.org

The Quality Assurance Lead and CISRO meeting the risk owners on a quarterly basis to discuss operational risk and any changes to the ORR, and judge the relative assurance provided by each risk owner.

2. Key changes to the Operational Risks

This section aims to highlight some of the changes over the last year. It is not an exhaustive list.

2.1 Executive Leadership Team risks encompass all departments at a slightly higher level. Differences in leadership style and practise may impact delivery across the organisation, so will use the People Strategy and corporate plans, values and behaviours, with a full ELT & SLT in place.

Failed projects and initiatives will impact the delivery of organisational objectives so improved change control programme with project support and frequent review of the corporate plan will match the resources available.

Regulation

2.2 Education reflects the implementation of the new education quality assurance operational model. The perception of stakeholders around how robust they consider the new QA model is, is reflected in a new risk, where mitigations are yet to be defined.

2.3 Registration & CPD have made a major review of its risks in light of issues such as increased international applications. Mitigations such as outsourced application processing, and online application services are listed. The register reflects the PSA standard lost in the past year which should be regained with the additional processing support provided.

2.4 Fitness to Practise has been undergoing an improvement plan over the last year or so, with the aim of improving performance as measured by the PSA, and operationally, to minimise the risk of backlogs extending or exceeding improvement programme costs.

There are still potential risks of the FtP process resulting in a decision that does not adequately protect the public, either at the investigation, or Hearing stages. PSA may challenge HCPC decisions, but this may not support public confidence in regulation. Influxes of cases can also impact the effectiveness of HCPC processes, so work by the Professionalism and Upstream team aims to mitigate uncontrolled growth in poor performance of registrants, and manage case number growth in the long term

Ineffective whistleblowing processes remains a concern and information sharing with other regulators in the Emerging Concerns group and employer engagement via the Professionalism and Upstream team aims to lower this risk over the medium term.

- 2.5 Governance risks include ineffective corporate reporting to ELT, Council and Committees, which is mitigated by oversight of the Head of Governance and for financial data the Exec Dir of Resources and Business Performance. A new Finance system to replace SAGE with further improve the quality of financial control and reporting.

Council decision making will be further supported by new guidance on paper construction for employees, further enhancing the ability to plan effectively for the future.

The Registrant forecast has been moved to the Finance Dept, support is being provided to the individuals taking on this task.

- 2.6 Quality Assurance risks now include management of the PSA reporting process.

QA risks focus on not being able to detect regulatory process failures at the early stage to enable avoidance of future PSA standards failure. Failures of currently compliant areas due to ongoing focus on traditional areas of difficulty and resources being focused on those traditional areas. The quarterly challenge of risk owners in the combined QA & Risk & Compliance assurance meetings assists validation of the operational treatments being cited by regulatory areas.

Resources and Business Performance

- 2.7 Finance & Procurement. Significant risks have been mitigated as past roles have been replaced, but ongoing issues are still being addressed by the new Finance team. Documentation around new processes is being developed, but inherited issues around the technical design of Business Central require a major project to resolved. Process failures are still a concern until changes in systems are completed with the required level of documentation. Mitigations will be monitored via Risk & Compliance audits. Procurement controls are being addressed and standard financial controls have now been reimplemented.
- 2.8 Human Resources risks are concentrated around recruitment and retention of employees, and the potential to increase costs if retention efforts fail. The People Strategy, succession planning and flexible working developed since the Covid-19 pandemic will mitigate some issues.

Increased flexibility following pandemic home working will be incorporated in the new ways of working (Hybrid working) although that may make planning more difficult, and increase costs. Moral may become an issue with home working, continual change and perception of the HCPC by employees. [One size does not fit all]

Bureau Payroll services may be withdrawn forcing immediate insourcing of the processes to HCPC, which would be shared with the Finance team This is a new risk, along with employee skills and behaviours not being appropriate to HCPC's needs.

2.9 Information Security & Cyber security risks now reflect the confidentiality, availability and integrity aspects for each risk, pre and post mitigation. This very granular approach is not suitable for the rest of the organisation, but is a requirement of the ISO27001:2013 standard. Detailed scores on each information asset are maintained elsewhere. Procurement of increased configurable automated systems from Microsoft will enhance our automated response over time.

2.10 Information Technology & Digital Transformation areas have been substantially reviewed following the appointment of the new Head of IT & DT.

- Cyber security aspects of IT are a key concern, and ISO27001, Cyber Essentials and improved technical resources are to be enhanced. However, home working by most employees places additional risks around home security. HCPC laptops have been supplied to most employees to control the desktop environment of hardware attaching to our infrastructure.
- Data retention may not be adhered to in all cases and is difficult to constrain without data and document categorisation. This will become possible for new data as enhanced technology is rolled out.
- User permissions with department managed application may lead to vulnerabilities so will be investigated in future for further control.
- Many applications / service are now outsourced so we are dependant on the resilience of those suppliers, which are most often cloud based providers, making traditional escrow arrangements more challenging.
- Business continuity must keep up with application and infrastructure changes, so Projects and Business Change will document changing requirements as they progress.

2.11 Projects & Business Change have been building a new Programme management model over the last 9 months, so risks do not have a great level of assurance until they are more fully embedded. Increased enforcement of budgetary processes, and documentation from project and process change have been mandated to mitigate past difficulties. Supplier management has moved to IT. Agile processes demonstrated with the latest Registration projects provide assurance that the new methodology is working.

2.12 Office Services (& Facilities) risks have fallen as the size of the estate and the related costs have decreased. However, preventive maintenance of plant and machinery in the older parts of the estate is difficult until full funding is available.

Professional Practice and Insight

2.13 Policy & Standards, have seen risks around failing to meet the PSA targets for EDI compliance decrease over the year as a major data collection exercise has taken place with renewing professions. A full team is now in place to cover aspects of policy work outside HCPC regulatory reform. The department contributes to regulatory reform development.

2.14 Insight & Analytics risks currently focus on addressing the historical under-investment in the quality and accessibility of HCPC's data. Despite significant challenges in this area, analysis has progressed, although this has required time and significant manual work to assure quality. The Programme for Data Excellence has been put in place to address this, jointly overseen by the IT team and I&A team, which is focusing on ensuring the availability of accurate data. A new Analytical Quality Assurance Framework is also being developed. This work will be supported by the new I&A apprentice and a short term internal secondment to address key gaps.

The data platform approach has not yet been funded, so intermediate measures are being developed. A collaborative approach is being developed as these data are collected for operational purposes and reporting is secondary to the original purpose.

2.15 Communications Permanent appointments to vacant posts have reduced resourcing risks, with external support maintained for the small team. A business partnering approach now supports departments with their communication needs, reducing the risk of inconsistent and inappropriate messaging damaging HCPC's reputation.

2.16 Partners – potential risks from the NMC/Somerville case remain. The case has not yet concluded and ELT has considered possible mitigations to reduce impact and risk for HCPC. It has proved challenging to recruit to the new Education Visitor role, particularly for our Hearing Aid Dispenser and Arts Therapist professions. The Education Department have confirmed that they can currently manage their business with the Partner numbers they have. We will run another recruitment campaign for these roles later in the year.
